Final Day for Feedback on College Based Fee Proposal

Wednesday, February 9, is the final day for campus community members to provide feedback on the Cal Poly College Based Fee Student Aid and Learn by Doing Plan, which would create a new campus-based source of financial aid and more fully fund our academic mission. Current students may submit their comments on the fee through the feedback form on the College Based Fee website. A Cal Poly student email address is required to submit feedback, and an individual student may only submit one comment. Faculty and staff may send feedback on the proposal to cbf@calpoly.edu. For more information, visit <https://afd.calpoly.edu/cbf/>, which includes the objective statement, frequently asked questions, open forum recordings and a schedule of campus presentations.

Cal Poly Earns a Fifth 'Most Promising Place to Work in Student Affairs' Honor

For the fifth time since 2017, Cal Poly has been named one of the "Most Promising Places to Work in Student Affairs" by ACPA-College Student Educators International and Diverse: Issues in Higher Education. The university is one of 15 higher education institutions nationwide to receive the honor, which recognizes ongoing commitments to workplace diversity and staffing practices through key factors like family friendliness, salary and benefits, and professional development opportunities, among others. All told, Cal Poly is one of three California campuses — and the lone CSU — to receive recognition. The universities will be honored during the American College Personnel Association's (ACPA) 98th annual meeting set for March 6-9 in St. Louis, Missouri. The full list of recognized universities will appear in the March 3 magazine edition of Diverse: Issues in Higher Education.

Sixth Annual Social Justice Teach in to be Held Feb. 17

Join the College of Liberal Arts on Thursday, Feb. 17, for the sixth annual Social Justice Teach In — a daylong series of talks and workshops centered around equity and social justice, designed to inform and inspire. These virtual and in-person events are open to all and will feature presentations from students, staff, faculty and community leaders. With over 40 sessions to choose from, four tracks are focused on specific topics to help attendees find sessions to match their interests: Equity-Minded Education, Self-Care and Community Well-Being, Art and Creative Efforts, and DEI (diversity, equity and inclusion) and STEM. The day will culminate with visual artist and social practitioner Christine Wong Yap presenting her keynote address titled "How I Keep Looking Up: Art and the Social Practice of Belonging and Resilience." Visit <https://cla.calpoly.edu/teach-in> for the full schedule and registration.

Mustang Shuttle Gets Extended Hours to Improve Service and Access Around Campus

Cal Poly community members now have more access to Mustang Shuttle with two additional hours of service and shuttles running past midnight. Mustang Shuttle, a free convenient shuttle service that gives students and employees a ride across campus every evening, is now available from 5:30 p.m. until 12:30 a.m. The change in schedule took place on Feb. 1 and will run through the end of winter quarter. With the switch to Daylight Savings Time, the shuttle will run from 7 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. during spring quarter, effective March 28. Transportation and Parking Services partners with SLO Safe Ride to provide Mustang Shuttle, which runs seven days a week with the last pickup leaving Kennedy Library at 12:10 a.m. The loop across campus will be covered by two shuttles running 10 minutes apart. To ensure that every Mustang can use the service, one of the shuttles is accessible to those with disabilities. Riders must show Cal Poly ID when boarding. For more information, visit <https://afd.calpoly.edu/parking/safetyprograms/>.

More Dining Venues and Plant-Based Choices Available

To better serve the Cal Poly community, Campus Dining introduced five more dining venues and added more vegan and vegetarian options across campus. Venues new to Cal Poly include Health Shack outside the Dexter building, which features acai bowls, pressed juices and other healthy selections; local vegetarian food truck Plant Ivy, which offers a variety of plant-based burgers with meat lovers in mind; and Market UU, a convenient grab-and-go spot on the first floor of the UU across from the Multicultural Center. In addition to these three newcomers, Campus Dining welcomed back campus favorites Julian's Café Bistro on the second floor of Kennedy Library and a special Chick-fil-A pop-up in PCV featuring a limited menu of classic items. The expanded plant-based options can be found with vegan and vegetarian icons on menus. Visit calpolydining.com for hours and menus for Cal Poly's nearly 30 restaurants.

Join Cal Poly Basketball for Faculty/Staff Appreciation on Feb. 22

As a sign of appreciation for everything faculty and staff members do for the university, Cal Poly Athletics is pleased to offer four free general admission tickets to the Cal Poly Men's Basketball game on Tuesday, Feb. 22. The Mustangs are playing CSU Bakersfield and tip-off is set for 7 p.m. in Mott Athletics Center. All faculty and staff can claim their four free tickets to the game by showing their Cal Poly ID at the Cal Poly Ticket Office or at the Mott Athletics Center Box Office on the day of the game. For more information or to purchase tickets to other games, visit www.gopoly.com.

CSU Steps Challenge Starts Feb. 14

Join the CSU Systemwide Virtual Journey. Employees begin at San Diego State, where they will head north, virtually visiting each of the 23 CSU campuses. Employees will earn five virtual steps for every step they take, and be inspired by fun facts about each campus along the way. The challenge is self-paced, so participants can visit as many campuses as they'd like on their own schedule. Employees can join as a team or participate on their own. Those who virtually visit 50% of the campuses and complete the survey by May 20 will be entered to win one of 24 prizes. Employees can visit <https://webapps.calstate.edu/CSUSteps/Home/CampusLogin> to sign up and log steps.
