Help Support Food-Insecure Students on GivingTuesday

This GivingTuesday, Campus Dining is helping raise money for students struggling with food insecurity. A recent study concluded that nearly 40% of respondents experience low or very low food security. To help, Campus Dining is hosting a pop-up shop on GrubHub on Tuesday, Nov. 29, to provide anyone with a Cal Poly email address an avenue to donate to Mustang Meal Share, part of the university's Basic Needs Initiative. Donations of $5, $15 or $25 can be made from a Campus Express account, Campus Dining Membership, credit or debit card (donate more by increasing the quantity when ordering). Donate at <https://calpolydining.com/dining-programs/grubhub/>.

In Memoriam

Zaf Iqbal, a former accounting professor, associate dean of the Orfalea College of Business and dedicated community volunteer, recently passed away. "Dr. Iqbal helped move the college forward on a wide range of dimensions, but none was more important than the planning and development for a new business school building," said Ken Walters, former dean of the college. "We simply could not have achieved this without his brilliance and dedication." Born in India, Iqbal moved with his family to Pakistan when he was a youngster. He emigrated alone to the United States in 1964, when he was 18, and put himself through college working as an accountant. An Arroyo Grande resident, his many volunteer roles included working with ReStore, which helped finance homes for Habitat for Humanity, Wilshire Hospice, the Good Neighbor Program, and the Children's Resource Network of the Central Coast. He served on the board of directors for the Retired Senior Volunteer Program of the Central Coast, was a partner for the Future at the Southern Poverty Law Center and a past president of the San Luis Obispo Democratic Club.
