College of Science and Mathematics to be Renamed in Honor of Baileys

On Friday, May 5, President Armstrong announced that, pending CSU board of trustees approval, the college will become the Philip and Christina Bailey College of Science and Mathematics. Phil and Tina Bailey served at Cal Poly for multiple decades, fostering student success and establishing a culture of academic excellence, mentorship and inclusiveness. Phil Bailey joined Cal Poly as a chemistry faculty member in 1969 and served as the college's associate dean from 1973 to 1983 before his tenure as dean for 34 years from 1983 to 2017. Tina Bailey, who passed away in July 2020, began teaching at Cal Poly in the 1970s. She was a longtime chemistry professor and department chair, and an inspiration for women in STEM. The renaming marks only the second time in Cal Poly history that such an honor has been bestowed among Cal Poly's six academic colleges. The College of Business became the Orfalea College of Business after a generous donation by Kinko's founder Paul Orfalea in 2001.

New Frost Center Dedicated

On May 5, Cal Poly dedicated the William and Linda Frost Center for Research and Innovation, celebrating the impact of philanthropy on students' success. The Frost Center is named after William and Linda Frost for their 2017 CSU-record gift to the College of Science and Mathematics. The Frost gift funded a portion of the building and its research equipment and enhancements, such as the rooftop garden and atrium wood. In addition, the Frosts' donation will annually support student scholarships and research stipends, cutting-edge equipment and instrumentation, and expanded hiring of instructors, giving faculty members more time to mentor undergraduate students in research. The new 102,000-square-foot interdisciplinary research center features state-of-the-art interdisciplinary laboratory and teaching spaces that will enhance research and learning experiences for students and faculty in the College of Science and Mathematics; the College of Agriculture, Food and Environmental Sciences; and the College of Liberal Arts.

Save the Date for Dean of Graduate Education Campus Visits

All members of the campus community are invited to attend open forums for three finalists for the dean of Graduate Education position. The three one-day visits will take place May 15, May 18 and May 19, and feedback is crucial to the success of this search. Information about each finalist and the times and locations for the open forums will be sent via email prior to the campus visit.

Participate in Bike to Work to Win on May 19

May is National Bike Month, and Transportation and Parking Services is celebrating with an Instagram contest. On Bike to Work Day, Friday, May 19, the campus community is invited to share a picture for a chance to win a $25 Mustang Shop gift card. To enter the contest, post a story or selfie while on campus biking to work or class and tag @insidecalpoly. The first 15 people will win a $25 gift card to the Mustang Shop.

Change the Status Quo Keynote Event Rescheduled to May 22

Steven Canals' visit — which was postponed from its rescheduled March 15 date due to speaker illness — will now be held at 6 p.m. Monday, May 22, in Chumash Auditorium. Canals, an Emmy-nominated and Peabody Award-winning co-creator, executive producer, director and writer of the FX drama series "Pose," is the keynote speaker of the 21st annual Change the Status Quo Social Justice and Service Lecture Series. A groundbreaking queer, Afro Latinx creator, Canals recently signed his first deal with 20th Century TV and is developing projects that represent diverse and inclusive voices and stories of historically marginalized communities. Hosted by the Center for Service in Action, this annual event aims to empower students to use the Learn by Doing spirit to challenge social norms, ask critical questions, demand solutions and make lasting social change. ### Kennedy Library Town Hall Set for May 15

On Monday, May 15, the Kennedy Library Transformation Team will host a panel featuring the design and build firms, Miller Hull and Hensel Phelps. This is an opportunity for students, faculty, staff and supporters to learn more about the upcoming Kennedy Library Transformation project before construction begins in summer 2023. Panelists will answer questions during a Q&A portion. Other topics will include the project scope, summer quarter plans and temporary service and study locations. The town hall will be held from 5:30-6:30 p.m. in the Advanced Technologies Lab (No. 7). Pizza and drinks will be provided to those who attend.

Campus Community Invited to Engage in Inclusive Learning in May

To commemorate Inclusive Excellence Month this May, the Office of University Diversity and Inclusion (OUDI) is thrilled to be promoting an array of incredible programs and events hosted by campus and community partners that advance diversity, equity and inclusion. OUDI believes that an excellent institution is an inclusive institution and that all students, staff and faculty should feel valued, empowered and seen. This month is all about showcasing what inclusive excellence looks like and providing educational opportunities for all. May is jam-packed with events, including guest speakers, workshops and performances that highlight the many ways in which diversity enriches our community. The events this month are designed to cultivate a sense of belonging and activate inclusive learning. Find the full calendar at <https://diversity.calpoly.edu/inclusive-excellence-2023>.

Social Linguistics and Literacy Scholar to Speak on Global Accessibility Awareness Day May 18

Drawing from disability studies, his own cancer diagnosis, and his research on the writing and communication practices of a group of international STEM scholars, Suresh Canagarajah will present "Crip Writing: Communication Through a Disability and Decolonial Lens," from 3:30-4:30 p.m. Thursday, May 18, in the Advanced Technology Laboratories (No. 7), with a reception to follow. In his talk, Canagarajah, the Edwin Erle Sparks Professor of Applied Linguistics, English and Asian Studies at Penn State University, will demonstrate the importance of centering vulnerability and relational ethics in all effective communication. This event is held in conjunction with Global Accessibility Awareness Day and is sponsored by the Office of Writing and Learning, the College of Liberal Arts, the English and Political Science departments, and the Disability Faculty-Staff Association. The event is accessibly designed, featuring an ASL interpreter and CART real-time captioning. Attendees may contact John Lee (jlee245@calpoly.edu) with questions about event accessibility or requests for disability-related accommodations.
