July is BIPOC Mental Health Awareness Month; Cal Poly Offers Assistance

University Personnel and the Office of University Diversity and Inclusion aim to raise awareness of the unique mental health struggles of historically disenfranchised groups in the U.S. Black, Indigenous and people of color (BIPOC) disproportionately face higher levels of trauma while also having less access to mental health resources. LifeMatters (sign in: calpoly) — the university's employee assistance program — offers mental health support for all employees and their household members. Contact LifeMatters at 800-367-7474. The 988 Suicide and Crisis Lifeline also provides confidential support to people in mental-health related distress. Call or text 988 to reach a mental health professional.

Swimmer-Turned-Triathlete Taylor Spivey Bound for Paris Olympics

Cal Poly alumna Taylor Spivey is a U.S. Olympic Triathlon Team member, USA Triathlon announced in June. Spivey (Architecture, 2014) has been a professional triathlete since graduation. She grew up in Manhattan Beach, California, and was an experienced ocean lifeguard, winning the 2011 and 2012 Ocean Lifeguard Nationals. She went on to become a swimmer and at Cal Poly specialized in long distance. The 33-year-old enjoys the team aspect of triathlon — first as a member of her club team at Cal Poly, and now as a member of the U.S. National Team and frequent U.S. Mixed Relay Team competitor.
