Biology Student Co-Leads Global Study

Cal Poly biological sciences graduate student Owen Bachhuber is helping to lead a global study of snake perceptions to reduce the number of bites and deaths resulting from encounters with the reptiles. The “Under the Snakefluence” study involves surveying people in more than 20 countries to better understand public perceptions and fears of the creatures and to assess how best to educate people about serpents to promote safe coexistence. Bachhuber, a student researcher in Cal Poly’s Physiological Ecology of Reptiles Laboratory (PERL), is co-managing the project with Australian ecologist Christina Zdenek, Ph.D., who co-operates the Australian Reptile Academy. Perseverance Through Adversity: Grant Recipient

Luke Hansen planned to follow in his mother’s footsteps and become a chiropractor. He watched as his mother, a longtime chiropractor in Arroyo Grande, California, provide lifetime wellness care to patients of all ages. Hansen, who has always been fascinated by anatomy, was accepted in 2021 to Cal Poly’s kinesiology program. Seven days before his graduation from Arroyo Grande High, his mother, Laura Millis-Hansen, lost her battle with leukemia. In the years that followed, Hansen faced various life challenges. But through it all, Hansen has used his passion for his pursuits as a driver toward success. Read More: www.calpoly.edu/news/

Free Membership Retired Faculty and Staff Association (RFSA)

Thanks to a very generous financial gift from one of our association retirees, who wishes to remain anonymous, the RFSA will no longer charge annual membership dues. All retirees from Cal Poly will hereby become members of the RFSA. To opt in to receive RFSA news, updates, and event invitations, please provide your name and email address to association President Bill Kellogg at bkellogg@calpoly.edu.

Military-Affiliated Faculty and Staff Association (MAFSA)

The newly formed Military-Affiliated Faculty and Staff Association (MAFSA) is seeking members to launch our inaugural meetings this Spring Quarter! MAFSA's mission is to cultivate connections, foster a vibrant sense of community, and celebrate the rich diversity of experiences that military-affiliated members bring to our campus. We welcome all employees, faculty, and staff—regardless of military affiliation—who are committed to supporting and uplifting our military-connected colleagues and students. Whether you're looking to network, share experiences, or champion a more inclusive and supportive campus environment, MAFSA is the perfect place for you. Join us as we build something great together!

Seven-Day Paid Parking Implementation Delayed

The university is delaying the implementation of the seven-day paid parking program. The program was scheduled to go live Feb. 1. However, that implementation is being delayed while the university works to consider and address feedback received in recent weeks. The feedback gathered from the campus community has been extremely valuable, and university leadership thanks everyone for their participation in this process. More information will be shared as the university moves forward in developing future plans for parking.
